

REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE ADOPTS 20-POINT PLATFORM

Promising Re-Establishment of "Honest Government"
At Harrisburg

BITTERLY CRITICAL

Makes Promise of Restoration of Jobs in Private Industry

(By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—(INS)—A simply worded 20-point platform bitterly critical of the present Democratic State Administration and promising the re-establishment of "honest government" at Harrisburg and the restoration of jobs in private industry was adopted today by the Republican State Committee as it fired the opening broadside in the Fall election campaign.

Adoption of the program preceded a huge rally which brought an estimated 35,000 party followers here to consume tons of food at an ox-roast at Kenwood Park and later to listen to addresses by the entire State ticket at Duquesne Garden in Pittsburgh.

The Earle Administration was accused in the platform of inciting class hatreds, fomenting labor strife, and encouraging the spread and accepting the support of Communism. By contrast, the Republicans pledged themselves to return to "honesty, thrift and individual initiative and integrity in government;" to restore "freedom from political coercion and remove fear from those in public office," and to restore "common sense and spiritual ideals in government."

On the important subject of relief, the platform pledged ample relief to the unemployed, co-operation with the WPA and the establishment of a sounder and more comprehensive Social Security system. At the same time, it demanded a reduction in the public payroll.

The Republican party also pledged itself in the platform to defend the right of labor to organize and negotiate wages, hours and working conditions, but objected that instead of attempting to settle labor disputes the government confine itself to offering its facilities to promote peaceable adjustment.

The platform further pledged the party to remove inequitable conditions against business in the State and to encourage industrial expansion in the Commonwealth.

To the farmer, the platform pledged protection in "the right to operate his business free from government crop control or other meddling experimentation." The platform demanded a change in the milk control laws so that their purposes may be accomplished and not prostituted.

The platform also included a pledge and promise to encourage greater home rule in the state and to develop a balanced highway program including continuation of rural road construction.

Presumably fashioned by Judge Arthur H. James, the gubernatorial candidate, the plank on anthracite coal blasted the administration of Governor George H. Earle for its "evasion and procrastination" in tackling the hard coal problem and promised the creation of a commission to eradicate the ills. The platform also demanded a reduction in the Canadian tariff on anthracite exports. "The chief issues of this campaign," as the platform opened, "are the re-establishment of honest government in Harrisburg and restoration of jobs in private industries."

"The Earle administration by its tremendous increase in taxes, by its red tape, by its extension of bureaucratic activities, by its increase in political jobs, by its punitive attitude toward business, and by its waste, extravagance and inefficiency, has brought the state of Pennsylvania to the verge of financial bankruptcy. In its administration it has incited class hatred, fomented labor strife and encouraged the spread and attempt the support of Communism, the great damage to American institutions."

Old Hayhouse, Perkaskie Landmark, Being Removed For New Improvement

OTHER NEWS ITEMS

One of the landmarks of Perkaskie Borough—the large hay house on North Seventh street—is being razed.

The building erected almost fifty years ago, was formerly owned by the Standard Hay Baling Company, of Souderton, and was operated for many years by Abram Freed, of Perkaskie. For the past ten years the structure has been used for storage purposes by the Edwin F. Stover Estate, Perkaskie and Blooming Glen hay and feed concern, which maintains a mill at 112 North Seventh street, near the site of the building being razed.

The mill being used at present has become inadequate for the business, and loading and unloading at the mill creates serious traffic hazards because the building is almost even with the curb line. The building was erected before the street was opened.

When the hay house has been removed a new mill will be erected on that site, the dimensions to be seventy-four feet by sixty feet. William Horn, Perkaskie contractor, will be in charge of the construction work.

When the new structure is completed the present mill will probably be used for storage purposes.

QUAKERTOWN RESIDENTS CONSIDER BUYING PARK

To Vote On Question of Increasing Indebtedness of The Borough

SITE OF FAIR FOR YEARS

QUAKERTOWN, Sept. 10.—Quakertown residents will at the election on November 8th, vote on the question of purchase of a park property.

The borough council this week passed an ordinance which will make possible the placing on the ballot in November the proposal to increase Quakertown's indebtedness by not more than $14,000 for purchase of property formerly known as LaLue Park. In recent years the Bucks County Fair Association has operated a fair there.

This will be the second appearance on the ballot for this particular proposition. In 1936 the voters of the town turned the same thing down by a vote of 1,251 nays and 1,192 yeas. Defeated by 59 votes, the measure, at this early date, it is predicted by a number of people, will lose by an even greater majority at the coming election.

If the measure is approved by the voters, the floating of a bond issue will be necessary, and that will mean added millage to the tax rate which now is burdensome to some.

It was "estimated" at last night's meeting that the tax rate increase for this particular piece of work would be one-half mill, although no guarantee is given at this time.

Since the purchase price of the park property is approximately $14,000, a bond issue for that amount would cover but the first cost, and council would have to find funds elsewhere to develop the park, etc., as outlined in the ordinance.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

New Deal and The Negroes

Washington, Sept. 9.

THE extent of the New Deal's political dependence upon the Negroes has never been fully grasped in the South—nor, for that matter, in the nation outside of the South—though there are plenty who recognize that what has been going on is revolutionary. What is planned for the future is more so.

MORE than from organized labor; more than from the subsidized farmers; more than from the so-called underprivileged; more than from the "liberals," about whom so much twaddle is talked; the real political strength of the Roosevelt Administration is derived from the Negroes. Though this is resented at the White House—considered, in fact, most indelicate to say so bluntly—the fact remains that the Negroes mean more politically to the Roosevelt regime than any other single voting class—and every clear-headed politician knows it. The Negro vote in this country today is the largest and most solid bloc we have. In a dozen great States north of the Mason and Dixon line it holds the real balance of power. Through the lavish use of relief funds, Federal patronage and unprecedented coddling, it has been almost completely captured by the Roosevelt Administration.

—O—
JUST AS FOR three generations it was the basic asset of the Republicans, it now has become, secretly, the most cherished possession of the New Deal politicians. It is the real reason for the extraordinary impotence of the Republicans. They have lost about three million of completely dependable voters whose ballots were always in the box before the other side began to count. The wholesale transfer in 1936 of these votes from one side to the other, thus making each count two, was the most sensational single political event of our time. The reason it made so little public stir was because the campaign was largely under cover. It had to be.

—O—
IT IS hard now to decide whether the success of this wooing of the

The case of Charles Goodbred against William Foster scheduled for a hearing before Justice of Peace James Laughlin, last night, was for the second time continued. The date now set for the hearing is September 21. The case first came before Justice Laughlin on September 2nd and was continued until last night, when the further postponement was announced.

Goodbred has filed a charge of reckless driving against Foster, who on August 20th, was driving the fire apparatus of Newport Fire Company. The action was the outgrowth of injury to a bull, which Goodbred alleges was hit by the apparatus while the firemen say the bull charged the apparatus.

A herd of cows had been driven across the road at Newportville when the bull came into contact with the machine. A veterinarian was summoned by the members of the company and the injury treated.

STARS ON STAMPS

To be delivered from anti-trust headaches and other federal ills that Hollywood is heir to, the film colony may yet thank its lucky stars. Certainly, if a cat may look at a queen, the prodigious motion picture industry may turn a reflective gaze on a prodigious Administration. It has been suggested by John M. Stahl, film director, that the postoffice department would sell more stamps if they bore the likenesses of celebrated movie stars such as Shirley Temple, Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Charlie McCarthy, rather than Presidents and other national personages or historic incidents.

That the original and resourceful Mr. Farley himself did not think of these fresh sources of postal revenue might almost be taken as an indication that he has been slipping—or at least resting on his special issues. No stamps could be conceived as likely to enjoy a wider sale than those bearing the likeness of film-land's first in the hearts of their countrymen. Children would cry for them; and the possibilities of movie stamp-collecting by the public at large would seem calculated to make even the treasury department whistle as it worked out new revenue schemes.

With tongue in cheek, high-salaried Hollywood luminaries might yet find themselves giving nearly their all to Uncle Sam while they realized that their own exploited popularity was paying the way to his social security. Who knows but what the cuties, the clowns and all the rest of the captivating citizenry of film-land may eventually be regimented to work for the government anyway?

WATCH FOR CHILDREN

The Bristol schools having reopened, it again becomes the duty of motorists to exercise particular care, especially in driving along the streets in school zones.

Children can not be expected to be as careful in avoiding street hazards as older persons. This lack must be made up by motorists in observing strict safety requirements. The excuse that the child victim of a fatal or serious accident had "darted in front of the car" will lack force if it is applied to an accident in a school zone. Operators of cars in such areas should control their vehicles such as to be able to stop them on a moment's notice.

Alertness and care on the part of drivers will go far in keeping down the accident rate involving school children.

Negro in the North while retaining the undiminished loyalty of the white-supremacy Democrats of the South is a greater tribute to the duplicity of the Roosevelt managers or to the sappiness of the Southern Democrats. At any rate, the dual game was successfully played. While Mr. Roosevelt might still have been elected without those 3,000,000 Negro votes in the North, neither his popular nor his electoral majority would have been impressive. Mr. Farley knows this better than anyone else; Senator Guffey knows it very well, indeed, and Mr. Roosevelt, with his head high in the air and his smug assumption that it was the "great liberal forces of America" which elected him, knows it, too, though it would pain him greatly to have to make public acknowledgment.

IT IS, of course, desirable from their standpoint to avoid public exposure of the New Deal-Northern Negro combination. Once the South fully understood the facts, the present revolt in that section, evidence of which was given in South Carolina last week, would become violent and general. Hence there was deep resentment among the Administration politicians some weeks ago when the Rev. Stanley High, one of the chief instruments through whom the Negro vote was delivered, spilled the story in a magazine, pointing out that the electoral vote of the "Black Belt," by which he meant the ten contiguous Southern States where the Negro vote is largest, is very much greater than that of the Solid South, where they don't vote at all. Therefore, when the time arrives and the New Deal has to choose, it will, of course, choose the "Black Belt" and let the Solid South "holler its head off."

THIS isn't the Farley-Guffey idea at all. Their idea is to continue playing the South for a sucker, but the more astute of the left-wing intimates of the President, now so firmly in the White House saddle, have a different view and a concrete plan. For quite a while they have had in mind a scheme by which they feel the Roosevelt regime and, incidentally, themselves, could be kept in power almost indefinitely. It is a fact they have talked this over among themselves. It is a further fact that if the primaries this fall should turn out in a way to insure Roosevelt control over the next session of Congress the effort to put their plan into effect will be made. Of course, if the New Deal loses in the Georgia and Maryland primaries and is further diminished in strength by Republican gains in November, the Roosevelt control will not exist and the plan would have to be dropped.

OF COURSE, there will be people to say that no such thing is contemplated, but that is what they said in 1936 when it was asserted by this writer and others that if Mr. Roosevelt were re-elected he would seek by legislation to control the Supreme Court. Briefly, the plan is this: If the Roosevelt control is tightened by the elections, first, there will be an open Administration drive to put through the anti-lynching bill. This will be followed by legislation, now being carefully thought out, to put an end to the disfranchisement of the Negroes in the South. Mr. Roosevelt will be openly behind this drive instead of covertly behind it as at the last session. The time will have arrived, it is said, when it will be unnecessary as well as silly to be afraid of the South.

THE brain-trust argument is exactly that of Dr. High—to wit, that it is more vital politically to hold the Black Belt than the Solid South. The greatest reservoir of potential votes in the country—some five million and more—they contend, is made up of the Negroes of the South, who are not allowed to vote, and the poor white sharecroppers, to whom the New Deal particularly appeals. It is possible, argue the President's advisers, by enfranchising the Negroes and subsidizing the sharecroppers, to add so great an army of voters to the New Deal forces that they really would become politically unbeatable. That is the dream. How far they get with it depends upon how much domination they have over the next Congress. If they win, they are going after those five million voting fish in that untouched Southern reservoir with a legislative net guaranteed to catch them all. The idea is in line with the wishes of the Negro leaders with whom the Administration politicians have been dealing. It has been enthusiastically evolved by the brilliant young men who constitute the "inner White House circle." The commitments of the practical Administration politicians to the Northern Negroes are such that they will have to "go along" with the brain trusters' plan once it is launched. The South ought to be interested.

ON SCREENS IN BRISTOL

GRAND
The Jones Family, one of Hollywood's home-spunniest and most human contributions to film entertainment is headed for Bristol again.

This time, this consistently laugh-provoking group appears Sunday at the Grand Theatre in "A Trip To Paris." Advance reviewers have declared this picture to be the funniest adventure America's favorite film folks ever have embarked upon.

Ma and Dad Jones (again portrayed by Spring Byington and Jed Prouty) have wanted to take this trip for years—and this time they do it by accident. Dad, according to the story, drops the remark that the money he has secured from the sale of some property is going to finance a vacation at Paris Falls. Before he gets home the back-fence gossip brigade has preceded him with a garbled rumor. He finds his whole family set to leave for Paris, France, and he hasn't the heart to burst the bubble.

Edmund Lowe loves playing detective roles on the screen. But he has one complaint to register against the endless parade of super-sleuths he's been depicting. They've taken the joy out of one of his favorite off-screen relaxations—reading detective stories. "As far as the detective roles themselves are concerned," said the popular star, who does his latest bit of sleuthing at the Grand Theatre on Sunday in Alexander Korda's "Murder On Diamond Row," "I find them more and more interesting. But they've ruined the kick I used to get out of reading detective novels. I always spot the murderer at once nowadays. I've got so thoroughly into the fiction detective's technique that I know exactly what he is going to do and how the story is going to develop!"

After doing a notable job of tracking down in "Under Cover of Night" and "Espionage," Lowe went all the way to England to play an ex-Scotland Yard inspector who is reinstated for his ingenious methods tracking down and unmasking a mysterious diamond "fence" in "Murder On Diamond Row."

BRISTOL
Ten thousand years of history are magically brushed aside as "Boo!oo," Paramount's saga of the jungle, unrolls the picture of a fantastic land into which civilization has never penetrated and where voodoo-bound natives lead a life reminiscent of mankind's darkest era. Directed and produced by Clyde E. Elliott, the master of jungle dramas, who directed "Bring 'Em Back Alive" and "Devil Tiger," the film opens Sunday at the Bristol Theatre.

Flamed in the heart of the Malayan jungle, about 400 miles north of Singapore, "Boo!oo" relates the experiences of a young English explorer, played by suave Colin Tapley, who enters the "green inferno" to redeem his father's honor. His father, also an explorer of note, has written a book about a white tiger, who is worshipped as a god by the superstitious natives. When his fellow-scientists denounce him as a fraud for this story, Tapley leaves England for the trackless jungle in order to capture the white tiger and prove to his detractors that such an animal actually exists.

The worst terrors of the jungle have been filmed by Elliott and his crew. A stampede of wild elephants, a life-and-death battle between a crazed tiger and a white man, the weird rites of the natives and, capping the climax, the ritual sacrifice of a beautiful maiden to the white tiger-god, all figure prominently in the astonishing experiences of the young Englishman on his safari. With a determination born of fear, he fights the terrors and emerges from the jungle with a discovery that startles the world of science.

In addition to the exciting action sequences filmed by Producer-Director Clyde Elliott, "Boo!oo" boasts a talented cast of players. Lovely Jayne Regan, Cecil B. DeMille's discovery, seen recently in "Second Honeymoon" and "Josette," plays the South Seas beauty of "Hurricane" and "Hawaii Calls," will be seen as the native girl who is sacrificed to the white tiger by the natives.

CARDINALS OPEN SEASON HERE ON SAT., OCT. 22ND

Ten Games Are Listed On The Schedule Which Was Released Today

ONLY FOUR GAMES HERE

High School Eleven To Do Much Traveling During
This Season

Ten games are listed on the Cardinal and Gray football schedule for the 1938 grid campaign, according to an announcement made today. But of those ten games, they take to the road for six of them, playing the balance of four games on the home lot.

As a matter of fact, the boys of coach Steve Juenger, who are now going through their daily paces in preparation for the oncoming campaign, do not perform before the home crowd until Saturday afternoon, October 22. On that day they will play host to the Immaculate Conception eleven from Trenton.

In the meantime, they will erase almost half of their schedule when they encounter four consecutive foes on foreign fields of action. And since all of these are of considerable distance to journey the majority of the local enthusiasts will have to wait for the Trenton boys to invade Bristol to get their first look at the 1938 outfit.

What's more, however, is the fact that Bristol will find a stalwart in everyone of opposing faction in these tilts. And it doesn't let up until the end of the season. There isn't a "breather" on the entire set-up of foes this season, and according to Coach Steve Juenger this year's card is the toughest a Bristol aggregation ever has carded.

There were four changes made in the local line-up of opposition for the grid this year over the 1937 schedule. Of the quartet of newcomers, two will make their initial bow as opponents of the Cardinal and Gray outfit in football relations, while two others return after several years of absence from the locals' card.

The pair of clubs to return to Bristol's schedule are Bordentown, New Jersey and Newtown High. The two newcomers are Collingdale, and, of course, Immaculate Conception of Trenton.

The tilts with I. C. H. S. and Newtown will be played on the home soil, while Collingdale and Bordentown, which incidentally, are the opening two games of the season, will be played away on Saturdays, September 24, and October 1, with the strong Collingdale club as the "lead-off" foe. Bordentown broke relations after a "stormy" tilt at Bordentown in 1935. Because of the near riot which terminated the relationship of the two schools on the gridiron, Bristol had to play at Bordentown for the first game of the renewed series. Newtown, on the other hand, had not appeared on a Bristol football card since 1932. But in that year the tilt was not played because of an epidemic, so the last time they met was in 1931.

Newtown replaces Fallsington on schedule and will be here on Friday, November 18. Bordentown fills in the vacancy so conspicuous in the new line-up of opponents, the place formerly occupied for so many years by Doylestown High—the first week in October, which was always the County-Seaters opening tilt of the season. So for the first time in over a dozen years, Bristol will not engage Doylestown in the pigskin sport. Immaculate Conception takes the spot left open by Norristown High, while Collingdale plugs the hole that Brown Prep opened. However, Collingdale has been carded for the season's opener, which went to Langhorne last year, and so the Redskins were shifted down to the number six spot on the schedule.

With the absence of Doylestown from the 1938 card, Langhorne High takes the place as the oldest rival on Bristol's list of opponents this season. Other ancient rivals to return to the schedule are Burlington and Morrisville.

The "Little Brown Jug" tilt will be played on Burlington soil this year on Saturday, November 5, while the Turkey Day Classic with the Bulldogs is to be played on the local field.

Bryn Athyn, Conshohocken and Bridgeport, all of whom were retained on this season's list are comparatively new opponents of recent years, but nevertheless are all on par with the rest in regard to their strength.

The squad, which has increased numerously since the opening day of practice, is working hard and coming along in fine shape for so early in the season according to coach Juenger.

Bristol's 1938 football schedule for the varsity squad:

Sat., Sept. 24	Collingdale, away

Fri., Oct. 7	Bryn Athyn, away
Sat., Oct. 15	Conshohocken, away

SPRING CITY NINE TO BE ATTRACTION HERE TODAY

Baseball fans are reminded of the game at Landreth Ball Park at three o'clock this afternoon, between the Spring City, Pennsylvania Club and Landreth's Seeds.

The last meeting between these clubs resulted in a 9 to 0 victory for the visitors, so Landreth will have to play good ball today to come out victorious. The up-State club has been playing three or four games each week all season and are in great shape for today's game; but, Manager Landreth hopes that Howard Black will be able to toss over a victory. Bill Harwi will be behind the plate.

SELLERSVILLE RIFLEMAN EARNS BERTH WITH DEWAR

SELLERSVILLE, Sept. 10—A Sellersville rifleman, Ernest Pade, has earned a place on the International Dewar Team, by virtue of his continued fine work in the small bore rifle matches of the national events at Camp Perry.

He broke into the medal class in the Camp Perry matches when on August 30 he placed second in the Dewar Course Match for medalists only. His score of 387 was one point behind the leader, Carl L. Jackson, of Atlanta, Ga.

Winning his right for the International Team try-outs by this second place in the field of the largest number of small bore shooters ever to be gathered together, a total of some 850, Pade has proved the steadiness of his nerves.

Pade showed a total of 795 out of a possible 800 to automatically rate the coveted honor of International Team Membership.

The U. S. Team, firing against the choice of Great Britain's small bore shooters, proved itself the strongest aggregation ever to represent this country. Their total of 7553 boosted the old record by four points, a record which has stood for four years. Great Britain's score of 7900 was no competition for the United States sharpshooters. Pade scoring a 399 x 400, with 26 x's, stood 8th high out of the 20-man squad.

The matches this year have attracted the largest field in shooting history with a total of some 3700 competitors. They are held annually on the most extensive rifle range to be found anywhere in the world. They have this year taxed the range accommodations to capacity.

Pade's performance is most remarkable because he is not a veteran in the game. It just happens that he is a natural marksman, for from the very start of the Lenape Rifle & Pistol Club, which he helped to organize in Sellersville two winters ago, he was an outstanding shooter. The Club began its activities with a small handful of enthusiasts.

Starting his rifle hobby with a $9 Remington, Pade kept adding to his equipment until now he carries around a $200 outfit. Included in his collection is a group of gold, silver and bronze medals and gold and silver trophies. He has been high scorer at meets held at Plainfield, N. J., Sea Girt, N. J., Vandergrift, Pa., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., New Haven, Conn., Camp Ritchie, Md., and in numerous matches in Allentown and vicinity.

PREFERS "CARTWHEELS"

SEATTLE, Wash. — (INS) — Silver dollars may be slipping in popularity, but women still prefer the "cartwheels" to currency, according to John Bain, Seattle bank cashier. "Most women are strong for silver dollars," said Bain. "They don't like to take off their gloves when they open their purses to make purchases. It's easier to pick up a silver dollar than separate paper money with gloves on."

Nine Games Listed With Five of The Tilts Being at

TEAM IS NOW DRILLING

Coach Reimer Busily Engaged
Drilling the Eleven For
First Contest

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Sept. 10—Coach George Reimer and his Bensalem Owls, who are now drilling in preparation for the coming grid campaign, are faced with a rather stiff schedule this season.

Of the nine contests on the schedule, five will be played on home soil while the other four are listed for foreign fields. They will play on four Saturday afternoons, and a like number of Friday tilts. The other fray will be played on a Wednesday. The Wednesday tussle is carded with Fallsington, on the latter's field in their annual Thanksgiving Day clash, which was moved up one day at the request of Fallsington's head coach, Mike DeRisi.

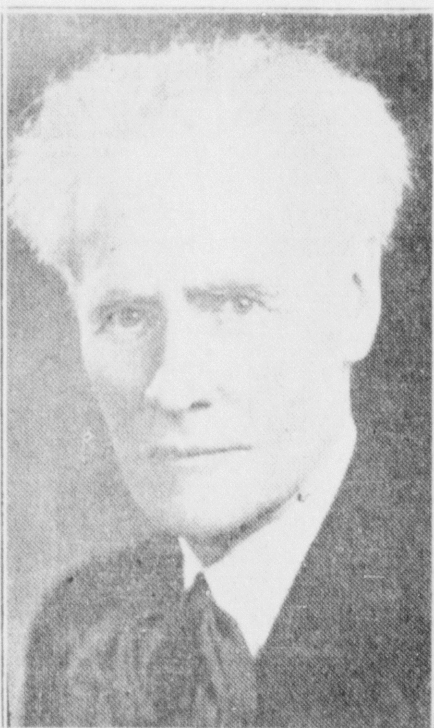

Coach Reimer's boys will also meet four out of five Lower Bucks Conference foe, three of which will be played at Bensalem. The other fracas—the Fallsington tilt—will be played away. Newtown, Morrisville, and Langhorne are the three conference opponents to play on the Owls' field. Bristol is the only conference foe the Owls won't meet. However, tentative practice sessions are carded with Bristol and Jenkintown.

Newtown, who played the opener with the Owls last season, has been dropped down to the third game, which will be Friday, Oct. 14. Langhorne and Morrisville will play on consecutive weeks, Saturday, November 5, and Friday, November 11, respectively.

Since Newtown had been dropped from the number one spot on the card to third place, Upper Moreland, which was formerly the second game of the season, has now taken the "lead off" position on the Owls schedule.

The only newcomer listed on the 1938 line-up of grid foes is Bryn Athyn Academy, who has replaced Hathorn on the schedule. The academic school will face the Owls on Friday, October 21 at Bryn Athyn in the first meeting of the two schools in the Fall sport. Although this was the only change of teams on the list, some of the other games have been shifted around from their usual spot on the card.

Traditional rivals who again appear on the Owls' schedule include Mount Holly, Pemberton, and the Alumni beside Upper Moreland and the four conference foes already mentioned. The first two tilts with Upper Moreland and Mount Holly will be played away before the Owls make their home bow against Newtown in the third fray of the season. They then journey to Bryn Athyn before they open a four game home stand against Pemberton, Morrisville, Langhorne, and the
